1. Introduction

This document describes the rule for normalizing the shape of glyph(Hanja) that can be found on the historical books. There is some characters(Hanja) that can be distinguished from the general variant form in the historical books. We cannot handle this kind of characters by unification rule because the unification mainly deals with the issue of variant form in the printed script, not in the written script. Written script is sometimes represented as cursive script, sometimes as semi-cursive script and so on. So we need to normalize these written script into regular or standard script. The aim of this document is to make a normalization rule for making a regular script and make an consensus about the normalization standard for IRG work.

1.1. Scope of this document

The aim of this document is to clarify the normalized character from the various glyphs in the form of written script that can be found in woodblock script or manuscript without any change in their meaning. That is only different glyphs, same pronunciation, same meaning by writer, this case is very temporary, and personal case, can not generalized. so, don't need set new character code point.

contrariwise, If we found new glyphs look like very similar with some variant glyphs, but have different meaning, this is not include normalization rule, in this case, we have to think unification with other characters or set new character code point.

1.2. Scope of Normalization

We can apply the normalization rule when we meet the below conditions.

- a. when we need to normalize the cursive script found in woodblock script or manuscript
- b. there seems to have a kind of typographical error considering the context of the full text in the non printed script
- c. when we meet the glyphs that have the same component(element or module), but their shape are different because of the writing custom fixed by tradition in the non printed script

1.3. Differences in 'Normalization' and 'Unification'

a. A case of cursive script

① 麗

i  → 麗 → 麗

ii  → 麗 → 麗

iii  → 麗 → 麗

② 定

i  → 宕 → 定

ii  → 宍 → 定

iii  → 宍 → 定

In case of ①-i and ①-iii, mostly normalization to “麗”, but some case normalization to “麗”. If the certain peoples name, place name, book title and others, writers deliberately write a certain variant form “麗”, normalization to “麗”. In case of ②-i, ②-ii, ②-iii, not Proper noun, not normalization to “宍”, normalization to “定”.

b. customary written form to normalization

① 尔

 → 懈慄

② 日

時 → 時

The ① and ② is the other component shape which was used widely in the 18th and 19th centuries in Korea. This case is not writers deliberately write, is case was used as a customary written form. Among this customary written form, such component shape case occurs very commonly like a custom rule, this is typical example of normalization, see below case.

2. Source reference (please refer to the IRGN2083c(KR's supplementary evidences)

The source references used in this document are originated from the IRG document N2083c.

- source reference book
 - A:『韓國文集叢刊』本輯
 - B:『韓國文集叢刊』續輯
- the source reference consists of 5 components.
 - > book number (e.g.: 92 means 92輯)

- > page number (e.g.: 15 means 15 page)
- > the position within a page
 - a: upper right
 - b: upper left
 - c: lower right
 - d: lower left
- > a vertical line number
- > publication date
 - 甲: 17C
 - 乙: 18C
 - 丙: 19C
 - 丁: 20C

As an example, consider "步 [B078;316d;6(丙)]"

[B078;316d;6(丙)] can be understood as: 『韓國文集叢刊』續輯, 78輯 (book 78), page 316, lower left, in vertical line 6, published at 19C.
